WOC COLLABORATES WITH PACIFIC RIM OFFSHORE WIND SUMMIT (30 SEPT – 2 OCT, SAN FRANCISCO) TO ADVANCE LOW CARBON ENERGY FROM THE OCEAN

World Ocean Council (WOC) and Trans-Pacific Offshore Wind Conference Are Working to Foster the Asia-Pacific Offshore Wind Supply Chain

14 September 2019

The World Ocean Council is honored to be a Supporting Organization of the Pacific Rim Offshore Wind Summit \(30 Sept – 2 Oct, San Francisco\), organized by the Pacific Ocean Energy Trust (POET) and Infocast.

The inaugural event will gather key industry players to evaluate markets and energy and environmental policy roadmaps, and to explore the potential of forming Trans-Pacific partnerships. As offshore wind projects ramp up on both sides of the Pacific, they require technologies, supply chains and construction methods designed for the region.

Conference panels include:

- Floating OSW Technology for Pacific Rim Projects
- Establishing an East-West Supply Chain for Pacific Rim OSW Projects
- A C-Level View on Trajectories for Projects in West Coast and Asian Markets
- Transmission, Substation and Interarray Challenges and Solutions for Asian and California Projects
